So if Green Smoke is such a great product and most who try it love the product, why does the company need to make discount codes? Well it's simple, Green Smoke understands competition, consumers tend to try the cheapest products first, even if they do not work. Let's say you go to a store that is selling an item you have been thinking about buying, but you are just not sure if it is right for you, you will probably not go for it. But let's say you have a coupon for that item that is going to save you 15%, you will more than likely buy it. Green Smoke discount codes work the same way.

A lot of times new discount codes are created when seasons change or popular activities begin, such as sports. Some of the most popular and successful discount codes of these types include SPRING FEVER, GREEN SUMMER, and NASCAR. These codes usually include around 12% off purchases and don't normally only apply when you spend certain dollar amounts.
